

If there is the slightest chance of interrupting the plane's ability to stay in the air or land safely, it is not worth allowing it. Especially so people can scream into their phone the entire flight.